In my opinion, we must be transparent about all things related to natural resources, even though we cannot measure them quantitatively, we can describe and feel them qualitatively. So when an incident occurs by humans that causes disruption or reduction of natural resources, we can anticipate or at least have thought about the compensation that must be made to overcome this. If we don't do this, I'm sure future generations will never know that there were such great natural resources in the past. Apart from that, it also maintains the sustainability of the ecosystem on this earth.
